Dear Mr Parker

The government has recently renewed her commitment to transition our national fleet to electric rather than petroleum vehicles. Here are some suggestions to facilitate this pathway.

By the by, congratulations for removing some of the many subsidies that the petroleum industry has been receiving. A very good start along with your previous move to not allow any more offshore drilling. Go go go. you are setting an example to the world and especially to Australia who should have long ago been 100% renewable energy.

Kind regards

William
