Hi, I've read the Transport rule on vehicle emissions.

ITS WRONG

As it says in the report, nobody actually tests the emissions in NZ, we rely on the test being done when the vehicle was new in Europe, Japan, wherever, but some of them are worn out (10yrs old) before they even get going in NZ, so say they last another 20 years, nobody ever actually checks the emissions...!!

In the UK they are checked every COF or WOF, in NZ they are NEVER checked,,,!!

The best thing the government can do is introduce the the test on every WOF/COF

THAT MY learned friends would be the answer to road emissions in NZ

Thanks for listening
