Subject: I support feebates for cars - AND for e-bike

Hey, I like the feebate proposal. We've gotta shift the dial on the make-up of our light vehicle fleet, and I think the proposed feebate scheme will help do that.

But given that e-bikes can replace some car trips – and have a bunch of other benefits – smaller footprint, reduce congestion, improve health & fitness etc – why can't we have a scheme that includes incentivising the purchase of e-bikes?

If we can afford to fund $8k off the price of an EV, we could make an even greater difference to carbon emissions and congestion by offering $1k or $2k off an e-bike.

Let's do this!
